If you need help (3)

If an earthquake occurs

After shaking has stopped

Open door/window to secure exit.

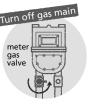

- Wear shoes or slippers to avoid injury.
- Extinguish fires/flames as much as possible.
- Check the condition of your house, and if it might collapse, evacuate immediately.

When evacuating

■ Turn off the gas main and electric breakers.

- Lock the doors for security.
- Do not use your car so that emergency vehicles would not be obstructed.
- Tell your destination to any neighbor or community leader.

If you need help (4)

If heavy rain or a typhoon strikes

When heavy rain or a typhoon is imminent

- Use TV, radio or the Internet to collect information proactively.
- Take items which are easily blown off such as laundry poles, planters and bicycles indoors.
- Where flooding is expected, move important items such as food, clothes and bedclothes to some higher places.

- Secure daily life water by such as storing water in the bathtub.
- Make up emergency preparations in order for quick evacuation.

When evacuating

Stay calm and consider whether you should evacuate right now.

Note: Evacuating when it is dark or in heavy storm is rather dangerous.

> If you could not evacuate quickly, move to a safer place and wait for help, such as upper portion of a safe building or some place where landslide damage would be less likely.

■ Evacuate wearing sneakers.

Note: Wearing boots would make it harder to walk when some water gets in.

- Carry your emergency preparations on your back to free your hands.
- Talk with your neighbors and evacuate by walk.

National Pension

Contact : National Health Insurance & Pension Division 234-6638 (South Building 1F) FAX34-6007

Nobody escapes the aging process. At the same time, any of us might face difficulties, such as illness, injury, disability, or losing our family's primary breadwinner. The Public Pension System is designed to support our daily lives during these challenging times. Everyone aged 20-59 with a registered address in Japan is legally required to enroll in the National Pension plan, which is one part of Public Pension System.

Types of Pension

(1) Social Security (Basic Old-age Pension)

You are entitled to receive social security when you turn 65 if you have paid into the program for at least 10 years, including those years in which you were exempt from paying. You may opt to receive your payments from age 60 at a reduced rate or defer your payments until age 66 or beyond, in which case, the amount will be increased.

(2) Basic Pension for the Disabled

You are entitled to receive this pension if you become disabled through illness or injury while you are enrolled in National Pension System or if you become disabled (mentally or physically) as a result of an illness or injury that you suffered before the age of 20.

(3) Survivors' Basic Pension

The children of, or a spouse with children of, either a deceased National Pension System member or a person who has paid into National Pension System for 25 years or more.

(4) Others

Other benefit programs for Category I insured persons include Supplementary Pension, Widow's Pension, a lumpsum payment for the bereaved, and a lump-sum program withdrawal payment for short-term stay foreigners.

National Pension enrollment categories

Category I: Those engaging in agriculture, forestry or fisheries; self-employed; unemployed; and students (must live in Japan, be between 20 and 59 years old, and not fall under Categories II or III.)

Mandatory : Category II: Corporate and government employees (those enrolled in an employees' pension insurance program)

> Category III: Dependent spouses (aged 20–59 and supported by Category II insured persons)

Voluntarily enrolled persons

(1) People aged 60-64

- Voluntary (2) Japanese nationals aged 20–64 who are living abroad
 - (3) People aged 65–69 who have not reached the minimum qualification period

Insurance premium: ¥16,610/month (as of FY2021)

Extra premium for supplementary pension plan: ¥400/month (optional for Category I insured)

How to pay

- (1) In person at a financial institution or convenience store
- (2) By bank transfer (apply at your financial institution or a Japan Pension Service Branch Office)
- (3) By credit card (apply at a Japan Pension Service Branch Office)
- (4) Online or by other electronic means

Reductions and exemptions

There is a premium reduction/exemption system in place for Category I insured who have difficulty paying premiums due to economic hardship.

(1) Legal exemptions

Those who are on welfare or receiving a Level 1 or Level 2 disability pension can apply for exemption from pension premiums.

(2) Application-based exemption

Those for whom their individual income, that of their spouse, or that of the head of the household are below a certain threshold can apply for partial or full exemption from pension premium payments. The partial exemption program allows enrollees to pay a reduced premium and be exempted from the remaining amount.

(3) Deferment of payment

Young adults (under 50) whose income (their own or their spouse's) is below a certain threshold may apply to have their premium payments deferred.

(4) Deferment for students

Students whose income is below a certain threshold may apply to have their premium payments deferred.

Important notes on exemption periods

- 1. The years in which you are granted partial or full exemption from premium payments are included in your required pension eligibility period.
- 2. When pension benefits are calculated, those who have received partial or full exemption from pension premiums will also have their pension payouts reduced. It is recommended that you make retroactive (additional) payments at a later date to cover your exemptions.
- 3. Retroactive (additional) payments to cover full or partial exemption periods can be made up to 10 years thereafter to ensure that your eventual pension payouts will be calculated as if you had made full premium payments. Note that from the third year and onward, however, your retroactive payment amount will be higher than the original amount due.

Note; For enrollment and other procedures, see page 55.

Water problems

(1) Water leak!

Check the pilot indicator on your water meter.

- If the pilot indicator is turning while all the taps in your house are closed: Contact a water services company designated by the City to have the meter repaired (note that you will be responsible for repair charges).
- If the pilot indicator is not turning: Contact Toyota City Water Services Association (☎31-1421, FAX31-1430).

(2) The water is discolored!

- White: Air trapped in the water pipes may be coming out in the form of numerous tiny bubbles. The water should clear up if you run it for a moment. The water is perfectly useable.
- Cloudy reddish brown: Turn off the water.
- Cloudy water may be due to firefighting activities, unexpected accidents, or water construction.
- If your neighbors are experiencing the same issue, refrain from using the water, and contact Water Supply Maintenance Division (234-6656, FAX33-9096) during regular business hours
- * After hours (5:15 PM-8:30 AM (weekdays), or weekends and national holidays), contact Toyota City Water Services Association (23 31-1421, FAX31-1430).

If your neighbors are not experiencing the same issue, the pipes in your house may be the source of your problem. Run water from an outside tap for a few minutes until it clears up and then resume normal usage.

(3) There's no water!

If your neighbors are experiencing the same problem, the water may have been shut off as a result of waterworks construction or an unexpected accident. Contact Water Supply Maintenance Division (234-6656, FAX33-9096) during regular business hours.

* After hours (5:15 PM-8:30 AM (weekdays), or weekends and national holidays), contact Toyota City Water Services Association (31-1421, FAX31-1430).

If yours is the only house not getting water, check to see whether the shut-off valve is open (it may have been closed if your water services have been canceled). If you live in a multifamily building, the water may have been shut off for water tank cleaning or inspection. Contact your building administrator for more information.

(4) The pipes are frozen!

Cover the pipes with a towel and slowly pour warm water over them to melt the ice. Note: Pouring hot water quickly over frozen pipes may cause them to burst.

If any water pipe bursts, close the shut-off valve and contact a designated water supply construction company for repair.

* For contact details for designated water supply construction companies, refer to the water supply construction companies and sewer construction companies designated by Toyota City on Toyota City website.
